Expressive Art and Design

Children will have a delightful time working with playdough and fish and pearl templates. They'll engage in a creative activity where they craft an oyster and add pebbles inside to simulate the concept of a pearl.

Additionally, they will discover the art of crafting paper boats. The children will also explore their imagination by drawing scenes from the stories they've heard, allowing them to visualize and express the story settings in their own unique ways.

Understanding the World

The children will have the opportunity to identify and name the various sea creatures that live the ocean.

They will engage in discussions regarding the question of whether we can live beneath the sea. Furthermore, they will explore the topic of how fish move through the water. They will talk about the ocean's valuable treasures and discuss what the best one might be.

Additionally, they will delve into the world of pearls, investigating the methods and processes involved in finding these precious gems beneath the waves.

Physical Development

Children will have a great time in the water area as they engage in play with plastic sea creatures, pebbles, shells, pots, and funnels, allowing for activities like transferring and tipping. They will participate in imaginative play where they mimic the movements of various sea creatures, adding a touch of creativity to their water play.

As a home assignment, the teacher will encourage parents to take their children to a pool for a fun and educational experience. The kids will be prompted to dive in and touch the bottom, indulging in the roles of diver while also pretending to go fishing. This assignment offers an exciting way for children to explore water and expand their imaginations.

Mathematics

During this week, the children will be introduced to numbers 10 and 11, expanding their numerical knowledge. They will also be revising numbers from 1 to 10.

This learning process will be made more interactive and engaging as they respond to a series of questions. These questions include inquiries like, "How many pearls were discovered inside the oyster?" and "Could you describe the size of the pearl?" They will also be challenged to count the fish portrayed in a given image and enumerate the diverse animal characters featured in the story.

Finally, connecting the lesson to the UAE, they will explore the idea of depth by learning about how far a diver had to dive into the ocean to find those valuable pearls. This will enhance their understanding of different aspects within their educational experience.
